IDEAS

I have always had a great passion for LEGO® bricks! It started when I was a boy and I just think I never really grew out of it. My LEGO passion was reignited when I had my son, as I remembered all my childhood memories with LEGO sets and it has just stayed with me ever since. When I build now, I mostly do it without a building instruction. For me it is a great way to be creative and have a little touch of fun and imagination in my everyday and together with my family. I think my passion for building without building instructions is what led me to the LEGO Ideas community. I remember the first LEGO Ideas competition I joined, as my wife challenged me to build a location from the Gilmore Girls series. I took the challenge and submitted my build and just found LEGO Ideas a great platform to show my models and what I can do. I have entered some competitions since then, and have learned that my models are best when I have a true passion for the competition. It just helps the creativity and imagination, and I feel these models. So I was thrilled when I saw the Vintage Car competition – I just knew that this was my competition, as I have had vintage cars as a passion for many years. I own a nearly 50-year-old car, and minifigure-scaled vehicles in LEGO bricks are some of my favourite builds, so I knew this competition was for me! The model has a special place in my heart, as I was inspired by my daughter in its design. The teal colour is my daughter's favourite colour, and she helped me pick it when I was building the model. Also, winning the competition made me extremely proud. I was walking around with the biggest smile on my face when I learned I was the winner, and it was so difficult keeping the secret, as people from the fan community started to reach out to me. I have just been overwhelmed by the interest and positive feedback for the model, and I cannot wait to see it in the LEGO Brand Stores. I will encourage all the builders of tomorrow to try experimenting with free builds and the fan competitions, and my best advice for you is that it is not about your building skills and how complex models you can make. The greatest models are built when you are having fun and when you follow your passions, as they express your personality and thereby a part of you.
