THIS IS YOUR LEGO® IDEA BOOK.

It is full of fun things you can build with your LEGO bricks. You can build them exactly as they're pictured or you can use the pictures to give you ideas for completely new and different things to build. It's up to you.

The book starts out with small, simple things. You'll find them easy to build. Then it progresses to larger and more complicated structures. They're more challenging, but, they're a lot of fun too.

The building instructions are in easy-to-follow pictures, not words. As you're building things you see in your LEGO Idea Book, children in Japan, Germany, England, France, Sweden, Australia and many other lands - are using their LEGO Idea Books to build the same things. People don't all speak the same language, but everyone can enjoy building with LEGO bricks.

Some of the building suggestions may use pieces that you don't have in your LEGO set. That's because larger LEGO sets and models contain special pieces that often only come in certain sets. When you feel you're ready for a bigger set or a particular model you should discuss it with your parents. Together you can decide what you should get.

And remember: no matter what LEGO set you get in the future, all the pieces in it will fit together with all the pieces you already have. That's one of the nice things about LEGO sets.

But enough talk, you've got a lot of building to do.

POLICE

This Idea Book has lots of good building ideas, but it's really only a beginning.

You'll enjoy building the things you see in the book, but imagine the fun of building things you see in your mind! LEGO is the toy that's new every day. You'll come up with your very own inventions. In fact, you may build things that have never been built before. Have fun.

And if you have any questions, just write:

Dear Parents and Children,

The word LEGO® is a special one. It's our very own brand name for the brick supplied by our Company, LEGO Systems, Inc.

Look for the name "LEGO" — we're proud of it. It's on every brick we make!
